

Houston Chronicle members
Not Logged In
Login / Sign-up

- NEWS | SPORTS | BUSINESS | ENTERTAINMENT | LIFE | TRAVEL | BLOGS | JOBS | REAL ESTATE | CARS | SHOPPING | NEW MOBILE | TEXT MSG

1 Comments 0 Recommend

An extreme makeover of your arteries

Nov. 9, 2008, 4:40PM

Paul DiMeo

CHRONICLE FILE

Share

- Print Email Del.icio.us Digg Technorati Yahoo! Buzz

Resources

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

Dr. David McPherson, chief of cardiology at Memorial Hermann Heart & Vascular Institute-Texas Medical Center, says to watch out for these risk factors that can lead to atherosclerosis...

- 1. Lack of exercise: Recommendation is about 30 minutes daily.
2. High blood pressure: Get your doctor to run the blood test.
3. High cholesterol: Depending on your genetic predisposition, you should start getting it checked as early as age 20.
4. Diabetes: This disease increases the risk factors.
5. Overweight: The extra weight creates extra vessels that can become clogged.
6. Smoking: Don't do it.

For information and a tour of an artery visit: www.athero.com

Q: So why are you so interested in heart-disease education?

A: You don't feel any different apparently until you have the stroke or the heart attack, and at that point it is too late. My biggest goal is just to get people to go to their doctor and get tested.

tara.dooley@chron.com

Paul DiMeo likes to talk about his arteries. Recently, the carpenter and designer from Extreme Makeover: Home Edition was in Houston to talk about his battle with high cholesterol, which can lead to plaque buildup in arteries as well as heart disease or stroke.

Q: What did you think when your doctor said you had a serious problem with high cholesterol?

A: The biggest thing that stuck in my mind was that heart disease is the leading killer among Americans. Bar no other thing, cancer, put them all together, most of us are going to die from heart disease.

Q: Did that freak you out?

A: Of course, because I was also learning about my own mortality. I was turning 44 or 45, realizing, "OK, I'm not going to live forever."

Q: So what did you do?

A: At first I tried to do it all by myself. I tried to eat better, I tried to exercise more. It was like, "My parents take pills every day, not me."

Q: What were you eating?

A: I was eating crap. I was eating what most of us eat.

Q: Like what? Mac 'n' cheese?

A: Certainly a lot of pasta, being Italian. But I was stopping by the local fast food to grab a bite to eat or having two or three eggs in the morning with bacon.

Q: Did that mean you had to get used to the pills?

A: I got used to it. Every night before I go to bed, I take my Crestor. I worked with my doctor on a targeted goal and getting my numbers where they are supposed to be.

Q: Is it hard to keep up the healthful diet on a TV-show set?

A: Everyone comes out, and they want to feed us. They want to feed me. They give us cookies. What better way to win someone's heart than through their tummy?

My schedule is such that there are meals you miss, where all of a sudden it is 11 at night and you are pounding down a cheeseburger because you are starving.

Q: So why are you so interested in heart-disease education?

A: You don't feel any different apparently until you have the stroke or the heart attack, and at that point it is too late.

Search advanced search | archives

Chron.com Web Search by YAHOO!

HOUSTON CHRONICLE instaAD 3 color ads $216 www.instaAD.net

- Teen finds mom stabbed to death in E. Houston home
DHL to eliminate 9,500 jobs at U.S. unit
Teen gets 99 years in officer's attempted murder
Orakop, McCoy address UT teammate's racial slur
Palin blames Bush policies for GOP defeat

- Fed won't give info on nearly $2 trillion in loans(436)
Obama arrives for White House tour, talk with Bush(281)
Palin spends time sorting through clothes(216)
Georgia congressman: Obama has Hitler-like potential(114)
Execution set as murderer's final reprieve request denied(68)

- Check for label marking 'natural' products
Hoffman: Anchorman dad makes her work harder
Men's fashion: Latin Grammy cool
Oak Island residents still living in disaster mode
People's Pharmacy: Side effects found in users of osteoporosis meds
An extreme makeover of your arteries
Hoffman: Food bargains, and what to do with an English muffin

- Eggs find a home on the dinner plate
Eat like an Olympic diver, not Michael Phelps
From the heart- a defining moment in my life
The end of a bad rap for casseroles
Westin Galleria's Daily Grill offers retreat